

International Lyme and Associated Diseases Society (ILADS)

ILADS 2020 Annual Scientific Conference, Online: One Health – The Intersection of Lyme and COVID Activity Dates: September 10-13, 2020

This continuing medical education activity is provided through collaboration between the International Lyme and Associated Diseases Society (ILADS) and the American Academy of Family Physicians (AAFP). This live activity provides continuing medical education credit for physicians, as well as a certificate of attendance for other participants.

Overall Meeting Learning Outcomes

At the conclusion of this activity, participants will be able to:

- Summarize the One Health paradigm and how it informs our thinking about tick-borne diseases, COVID, and other zoonoses
- Discuss the design and utilization of Big Data as a tool to extract meaningful data from patient medical records
- Identify the neuropsychiatric implications of tick-borne diseases
- Describe how persistent infections and host responses interact to cause chronic disease
- Review new clinical science and clinically significant basic science
- Assess new health policies and data
- Discuss the chronic nature of tick-borne diseases
- Compare treatment protocols for chronic tick-borne diseases
- Explain the pathophysiology of chronic tick-borne diseases
- Identify potential diagnostic tools for chronic tick-borne diseases
- Describe new ways the Lyme community can contribute to medical data collection and processing
